

Protecting your valuables financially /

The valuables insurance of AXA supplements your household contents insurance ideally and offers you individual coverage while at home or elsewhere. Each item is entered separately, making it easier to provide proof in the event of a claim.

High demand for valuables

The number of burglaries is rising steadily. Although no insurance can offset the sentimental value of a lost item, it's good to know that at least the material value can be replaced.

Scope of coverage

The valuables insurance covers financial loss arising from theft, robbery, loss, misplacement, destruction, or damage of any precious items you may own.

It is also valid while you travel (worldwide).

You can include:

- Jewelry
- Watches
- Furs
- Paintings
- Musical instruments

Detailed inventory of your valuables.

Help in choosing a security system.

Professional collaboration with the Art Loss Register.

Protecting valuables is a challenge /

Your jewelry and precious works of art require special attention.

Appraisal

An expert appraisal or a receipt on purchase provide the basis for assessing your valuables. On request, a specialist of AXA can conduct a professional appraisal of your jewelry and watches at any location of your choice. This service is free starting with an insured amount of CHF 250,000.

Entry of individual items

Unlike household contents insurance, valuables insurance describes and lists each acquired item separately. This makes it considerably easier to provide proof in the event of a claim.

Purchasing a valuables insurance policy is a matter of trust and is therefore only possible as a supplement to your current household insurance policy with AXA.

Theft prevention

Anyone who owns valuables also needs to protect them. That's why we are there: to help you choose the right security set-up, such as a safe or alarm system.

Art Loss Register

AXA works closely with the Art Loss Register, an institute that specializes in stolen or lost works of art worldwide. The total value of items that are recovered and reclaimed by the rightful owner amounts to CHF 200 million a year.
